Preface

Among the four surviving works for voice and piano, this is the only vocal duet written by Peter Gellhorn. It was written in Woodbury (near Exeter in Devon) in November 1939 and is dedicated to Nigel Abercrombie, a distinguished academic and writer, whose wife Elisabeth was a singer at Glyndebourne before the Second World War.¹ It is likely that Gellhorn stayed with the Abercrombies in Woodbury following the outbreak of war in 1939 and before his internment as an enemy alien in 1940. Nigel Abercrombie was a noted authority on seventeenth-century French literature and so the choice of a text by Racine (1639-1699) may have been inspired by him.² Abercrombie later became an influential figure in cultural politics in Britain and was Secretary General of the Arts Council from 1963 to 1968.³

Editorial Statement

A collection of Peter Gellhorn’s papers, including autograph manuscripts for all of his extant compositions, was donated to the British Library on 30th April 2010 and 20th July 2011 as Music Deposit 2010/15. The official reference for the collection is now MS Mus. 1800, and a complete catalogue can be found at www.petergellhorn.com/sheet-music. Alongside sketches and drafts, the composition manuscripts include a number of autograph fair copies, written in ink, clearly notated, and with few corrections, suggesting that Gellhorn intended them to be regarded as authoritative. It has therefore been possible to make urtext editions of these works, accurately conveying Gellhorn’s intentions. Some minor corrections and changes to formatting have been made so that the scores are ready for use by performers, in keeping with the ethos of the RCM Editions. On a similar basis, any specific modifications are outlined in the preface to each work, rather than using editorial brackets in the score, in order to reduce clutter on the page and to ensure easy reading. For an overarching outline of the approach to transcription, see “The Peter Gellhorn Edition: General Statement”, available at www.petergellhorn.com/sheet-music and at researchonline.rcm.ac.uk/69/.

Sources

A fair autograph score for Ah! Par quel soin is catalogued under MS Mus. 1800/3/1 Vocal music; 1925-1939. This is the sole source for the work.
The fair score is written in blue ink on 12-stave printed (but non-watermarked) paper. The manuscript is formed from three folios tied together with white thread through the left-hand edge to make a six-page booklet measuring 304mm by 244mm. The contents are as follows:

[i]: Title page
pp.1-4: Score
[ii]: Blank page

Specific Editorial Remarks

The following minor correction has been made:

Measure 38: a hairpin above the right-hand piano stave has been removed as it is duplicated by the hairpin between the two piano staves.
